British Columbia Children's Hospital makes in providing care for seriously ill and injured children, the McIver Wealth Management Team decided to lend a helping hand by recently donating more than $7000.

"As we planned to thank our clients for their business this year, we thought what better gift could there be than to help the hospital who cares for our community's most precious assets - our children," commented Neil McIver, First Vice President and Investment Advisor at Richardson Partners Financial.

"I am always inspired by individuals and groups like McIver Wealth Management who choose to make a charitable contribution to honour their clients. Their donation to BC Children's Hospital Foundation's Excellence in Child Health Fund will support the most urgent research, equipment, care and education needs of the hospital, and will help ensure that we continue to provide the high-quality care that BC's children deserve. We are extremely grateful for their generosity," said Angela Crowther, Philanthropy Co-ordinator for the hospital.
